Not illustrated. 1815 Excerpt: . build them with small sticks, and cement them with mud or clay; others unite them with a sort of gum which they collect from various kinds of trees, and line them with the hair of animals or with some other soft substance. Some suspend their nests from the boughs of trees, and form them of moss or dried bark. The size and colour of their eggs, are as various as their nests: but they all appear to be tender of their young and careful to provide food for them, and t- take care of them till they are old enough to take care of themselves. /How hard-hearted, how cruel it is to rob birds of their eggs or to take away their young ones: and yet some little boys destroy their nests and take the young birds, and neglect to feed them, and they soon...
